Irene Shim, Head Corporate Real Estate Services at Standard Chartered said:

“At Standard Chartered we take the safety of our staff and customers seriously, and have a low risk tolerance on Health and Safety incidents. We have organised and trained our employees to better equip themselves with the knowledge of handling fire hazards and also to be fire marshals at their workplace. Through this training, not only will it help to save lives, but to remain calm and understand what needs to be done in case of an emergency.”
