Standard Chartered expands eye care programme to additional 2.2 million people in Vietnam

Hanoi, Vietnam, 22 January 2016 – Standard Chartered Bank Vietnam today announced the launch of two new eye care projects to support the needy in the country between 2016 and 2018, with donation commitment totalling USD2.25 million from Standard Chartered and its NGO partners. The projects, named “Sight for Children and Elderly People in the Mekong Delta” and “Vietnam Child Eye Care”, set to reach nearly 2.2 million people, are in tranche 3 of phase 5 of Standard Chartered’s global Seeing is Believing campaign in Vietnam.

“Restoring someone’s sight not only enables that person to be economically productive but it also liberates carers to work or attend education,” said Mr. Nirukt Sapru, Chief Executive Officer of Standard Chartered Bank Vietnam. “By extending the impact of Seeing is Believing to more people in need in Vietnam, we hope to contribute to the betterment of the local communities and, in the long run, the sustainable development of the Vietnamese economy.”

The “Sight for Children and Elderly People in the Mekong Delta” will be conducted in Can Tho and Ca Mau by the consortium of three NGOs: Orbis International, Helen Keller International, and Eye Care Foundation. Budgeted USD1 million, with USD800,000 granted by Standard Chartered and the balance from the consortium, the project aims to help the children and people aged over 50 prevent or tackle eye health issues through providing comprehensive, quality, affordable eye care services.

“We aim at giving communities across the world access to quality eye care, transforming lives and restoring vision for those who need it most,” said Ms. Huong Tran, Vietnam Country Director of Orbis International, on behalf of the consortium. “Together with Standard Chartered, we are accomplishing the mission in many parts of Vietnam.”

The “Vietnam Child Eye Care” will be deployed in three provinces, Hai Duong, Danang and Tien Giang, by the Fred Hollows Foundation in Vietnam. It is designed to benefit almost two million children aged 6-15 by improving their eye health conditions through development and adoption of national school eye screening guidelines. Standard Chartered donates USD1 million to the project and the Fred Hollows Foundation contributes nearly USD250,000, making up the total of USD1.25 million.
“Deploying a large number of projects dedicated to tackling visual impairment in Vietnam, we see the dire need for quality eye care services in the community,” said Mr. Pham Quoc Anh, Vietnam Country Manager of The Fred Hollows Foundation. “The partnership with Standard Chartered in the past few years has been very fruitful as we have been able to help improve eye health conditions for hundreds of thousands of people, and we are excited to continue to partner with the bank in this project to extend the eye care services to more people in need.

Seeing is Believing is Standard Chartered’s global initiative to tackle avoidable blindness and visual impairment. Since 2003, Seeing is Believing has reached over 103 million people globally through medical interventions, health education and improved access to eye health in their communities.

Banks have an essential role in a prosperous and healthy society. Standard Chartered strongly believe that by running our operations well, standing by its clients and customers, and investing in the communities where it operates, it can be a powerful force for good. The Bank spent more than USD1.5 million for its various community investment programmes in Vietnam in the last two years.

Besides Seeing is Believing, the dedicated programme for visual impairment, the Bank also focuses on HIV awareness, the empowerment of girls, gender equality and environment protection. Its contributions have recently been recognised with the “Best Corporate Social Responsible Bank in Vietnam 2015” award from the London-based International Finance Magazine.
